

How the World Bank is assisting RENs in Ghana, Malawi and Somalia

The World Bank Group is assisting Research and Education Networks (RENs) in a number of African economies through its lending programs, usually as part of broader programs focused on Digital Development. This paper will look at the objectives and structure of these lending programs in three countries – Ghana, Malawi and Somalia – and will examine how the model could be applied in other countries.

Summary

World Bank Group technical assistance and lending programs for RENs in Africa.

Primary author: Dr KELLY, Timothy (World Bank)

Presenter: Dr KELLY, Timothy (World Bank)

Session Classification: PLENARY SESSION IV –Paper Presentations

Track Classification: NREN Business Models and Use Cases